Stoneham High School

Class of '99

SENIOR

The journey has ended and the pieces have come together for the Class of '99. Our future quest is upon us and it is time now to look back and see how we've grown and matured. We take these memories as pieces of ourselves: growing, learning and becoming who we are. Our friends leave part of themselves with all of us whether it be a lesson learned or some good advice. Through childhood and young adulthood we have met some of the greatest, funniest and smartest people who have become our friends. Most of us will leave Stoneham High with friends for life. So when our future feels like an enigma, we know there is someone to come home to.

The Class of '99 is one of a kind. People have looked at us with puzzlement and wonder. They ask themselves why some of us have never grown up, but that's what makes us "us". What would we remember if everyone was the same? All of our unique personas have left numerous stories at S.H.S. and we are proud. So, this Senior Collage is for us; these are our memories.

The pieces
TOGETHER

PUTTING THE PIECES TOGETHER

We all possess pieces in our lives that we cherish in our hearts, pieces that build our characters, pieces that guide us along our journeys, pieces that push us to our full potential. We are not born with these pieces but collect them as we explore the world. They are our memorable experiences, the wisdom that we continue to gain, and those influential people in our lives.

As our senior year comes to an end, we can look back at our high school careers and put the pieces together. Despite our teenage resistance, our teachers have opened our minds and set us on the correct path. Our peers have proven the success in cooperation. Our friends have been there for us through good times and bad. Even our mistakes have had an impact on us. We learn that it is human to make them and the best we can do is try harder next time. All of these pieces will allow us to make the right decisions, to follow our dreams, and make a difference in society.

Not only do we have our own pieces, but we are also pieces of other people's lives. In some way, we are all connected to each other, making each other stronger. With the tight bonds of friendship, we are invincible. We can accomplish whatever we put our minds to. We are the Class of 1999.

DEDICATION

Athletic, artistic, selfless, devoted, dedicated. These are just a few adjectives that come to mind when thinking of Mr. Henry "Bob" Margarita. Through his many years of commitment to the school, Mr. Margarita has gained the respect of the student body. Whether it be supporting the athletic teams as Equipment Manager, doling out lollipops, or carrying on a friendly conversation, his dedication to the students is seen daily as he saunters the hallways with his dog, Root Beer, by his side.

He began his journey to success when he graduated from Medford High and attended Brown University where he became an All-American football player. His versatility as both an offensive and defensive player eventually led him to the Brown University Hall of Fame. His success in football continued on, allowing him to be drafted by the Chicago Bears. However, his concern for his family forced his football career to take a backseat while he nurtured and cared for a family member during a prolonged illness. After his decision to leave professional football, he went on to coach at several prestigious colleges including Georgetown University, Boston University, and Harvard University.

As a social studies teacher at Stoneham High School for over twenty years, Mr. Margarita continued his nurturing ways as he inspired students with his love of history.

After his retirement in 1986, another aspect of his personality rose to the forefront - he developed his talents as an accomplished watercolor painter. The annual raffle of his paintings funds the S.H.S. scholarships he established in his wife's memory.

Because he truly personifies the "Renaissance man," Mr. Margarita serves as a role model for all students whether they be athletes, scholars, or artists. His unceasing altruism proves him to be an important part of the S.H.S. puzzle.

Thank you,
Mr. Margarita

Faculty

and English literature, they have guided us, inspired us, and encouraged us. They have helped us solve many of life's little puzzles.

They taught us to always believe in ourselves and to never give up. They are our teachers.

They watched us grow from eager elementary school kids to enthusiastic young adults. Along the way, they touched our minds with their words of wisdom and our hearts with their kindness, patience, and encouragement. They've played important roles throughout our lives.

Life can definitely be a puzzle sometimes. It can be hard to figure out. Our teachers, however, have always been there to help us sort things out. With each new fact or kind word, they add a piece to the puzzle.

So we dedicate this section of our high school yearbook to our teachers, past and present, who have helped us to become the people we are today.

Dances

A feeling of excitement rushes over everyone as they step out of their cars and hear the music filling the parking lot. Everyone walks into the cafeteria wearing the usual jeans and T-shirt for our Senior Class dance - another night to spend with our high school friends. The semi-formal, also held in the cafeteria was more formal, but just as much fun. Our junior prom, held in the Andover Country Club was an unforgettable night. The girls, all made up in their evening gowns, and the boys, looking handsome in their tuxedos, made memories as they danced the night away. Whether we were in the cafeteria wearing jeans, or in an elaborate hotel wearing formal attire, we always enjoyed ourselves. With each dance another memory of Stoneham High School is imprinted in our minds.

As our high school experience comes to an end, we fondly remember our dances at Stoneham High School...

The Pieces

SEMI-FORMAL

Throughout our four years of high school, we have had many fun and unforgettable moments. Two of the most exciting and memorable of these moments would have to be the semi-formals. The months of preparation were all worthwhile when we appeared looking our best in sequins and suits on the nights of March 15, 1996 and November 15, 1996. The cafeteria was transformed into a miniature ballroom with lights, balloons, and decorations thanks to the hard work by the class officers. Although many of us were apprehensive during the days leading up to the semi, everyone had a good time. The memories of the semi-formals will stay with us forever.

JUNIOR PROM

It was a picture perfect night on April 3, 1998 as limos and vans jammed packed into the Andover Country Club. Dressed in beautiful gowns and rather suave tuxedos, couples filled the decorated room. The atmosphere in the hall was wonderful. Candles illuminated each table setting and balloons floated over the dance floor, reflecting the light from the ceaseless flashing of the cameras. After a delightful dinner, everyone proceeded to get down with the upbeat music. Following the dance, groups of friends left for their post-prom parties. Overall, the junior prom was a blast.

SENIOR DANCE

Every year since we were freshmen we've had a dance of our own but none was like the Senior Class Dance. Since freshmen year we've partied hearty at these "shindigs" and to top it off, we have been the best class with the best moves. Year after year our special moves and jives have improved to an exceptional quality and now at the Senior Class Dance, the floor is ours and ours alone to show and amaze each other. Along with dancing comes the opportunity to bring the whole class together and just have fun hanging out. The Senior Class Dance is a memory to hold of our high school years. It is our last informal dance dedicated to us. A lot of hard work is put into the dances from the class officers and we've appreciated their hard work all four years. So remember as you look at these pictures, how much you enjoyed shaking your "booty" and the friendship-filled moments we had.

Activities

Our high school years included much more than academics. Many activities were offered for us to enjoy as either participants or spectators. From Carnival Ball and the drama club plays, to Halloween and the Winter Concert, there was something for everyone. As you look back at the pictures, remember the effort it took to "put the pieces together" so that everything would work just right. Many people helped us along the way - parents, advisors, and fellow students. So, thank you to those who contributed to making our high school experience memorable.

HELLO DOLLY

"It only takes a moment" to fall in love with Stoneham High School's 1998 spring musical, Hello Dolly. The antics of Dolly Gallagher-Levi (Nicole Gagerges) as she plotted and schemed to marry the wealthy Horace Vandergelder (Matt McDonald), kept the audiences laughing. As Dolly tried to steal the heart (and money) of Vandergelder, the spirit of falling in love also took hold of Cornelius Hackle (Chris Feudo) and Barnaby Tucker (Marcos Valles), Horace's store clerks. They were instantly swept away by the lovely milliner Miss Irene Molloy (Patti Hanks) and her assistant Minnie Fay (Jen Carli).

Thanks to the hard work of the SHS cast and crew, Hello Dolly was a huge success. Congratulations to all who participated, including these Class of '99 members: Teena Bramante, Johanna Buckley, Dan Christie, Laurie Davis, Julie DeStefano, Joe Incatasciato, Steve Launie, Melissa Loperfido, Laurie Mooney and Jessica Scully.

HALLOWEEN

Halloween is always a time when creativity emerges. This year each class supported their cause by dressing up within a specific theme. A trip to classical Greece could be taken in the Senior hallway.

Togas and sandals were proudly worn by the most outgoing. The Juniors showed off their best as they prepared for a night on the town. The Sophomores challenged the elegance and sophistication of the Juniors as they dressed as our favorite nerds. The Freshmen, however, had us all beat. One could not escape from the presence of the literary and historical characters.

A few of the teachers charmed us with their impersonations of people ranging from Julius Caesar to Albert Einstein.

Also, the South School kids treated us to a costume parade, and a glimpse into our past.

ARSENIC AND OLD LACE

Arsenic and Old Lace is not your average high school production. The story revolves around the lives of two elderly women, portrayed by Jackie Feke and Danielle Festino, and their three nephews. Mortimer (Marcos Valles) is trying to hold the family together after finding out his aunties murdered twelve elderly gentlemen. Teddy (Dave Ruff) believes he is Teddy Roosevelt. And, Jonathan (Chris Mullins) is an escaped killer, traveling with his alcoholic assistant, Dr. Einstein (Johanna Buckley). When all these eccentric characters combine, the result is a hysterical comedy.

Many seniors were involved in this production. Others onstage were Dan Christie, Laurie Mooney, Jen Addonizio, Julie DeStefano, Tina Bramante and Erin Moores. Behind the scenes were Laurie Davis, Joe Incatasciato, Melissa Loperfido and Jessica Scully.

WINTER CONCERT

The Stoneham High School Band, Chorale, Jazz Ensemble, and Chamber Chorus performed a number of extraordinary pieces at the annual Winter Concert. The Band, conducted by Edward Grammer, performed first, captivating the audience with El Capitan, Introduction and Dance, Yuletide Festival and The City of Lights. The Jazz Ensemble played Blue Bossa, Peel Me a Grape (featuring Johanna Buckley as a vocalist), and Witchcraft. The Spartan Chorale, with Mr. Youngman as conductor made an excellent showing of With a Voice of Singing and Wade in the Water (featuring Jen Duchene, Steve Launie, Amanda Norden, and Marcos Valles). The Jazz Ensemble returned and accompanied the Chorale for Two Villancicos, and Besame Mucho.

The Chamber Chorus then performed The Christmas Song (featuring Amanda Fitzgerald). The Jazz Ensemble returned and the two groups left the audience singing Feliz Navidad as the Grand Finale.

ALICE'S WONDERLAND

A powerful play with an important message was the DramaFest choice this year. ALICE'S WONDERLAND is an anti-drug version of the children's classic. Alice (Danielle Festino) takes LSD and during her "trip" meets the White Rabbit (Marcos Valles), the drug-dealing Caterpillar (Chris Mullins), her alcoholic Queen-of-Hearts mother (Jackie Feke), and her absentee Mad Hatter father (Dave Ruff). A disturbing memory of being raped by a high school acquaintance (Matt McDonald) also replays in Alice's mind. Seniors in supporting roles were Johanna Buckley as Cindy and Melissa Loperfido as the letter "T". Senior stage crew members were Joe Incatasciato, Laurie Mooney, Jessica Scully, and Jen Martins. Awards were won by Danielle Festino (writing), Dave Ruff (acting), Jennie Nocella, Lauren Paicopolos, and Chris Mullins (costumes).

CARNIVAL BALL

Once a year the auditorium of Stoneham High is transformed into a magical and wondrous place - the setting for Carnival Ball. Each winter excitement, comedy, and drama is brought to the stage with a new and creative theme. This year was no exception with the Class of 1999 in control - the theme Broadway. From the Wizard of Oz to West Side "Stoneham", each class provided comic relief with their own interpretation of a Broadway show. In order to leave the audience in complete awe, many talents were performed. From the traditional court waltz to singing and Irish-step dancing, Carnival Ball left the audience stunned and craving more.

MEMORIES

My most vivid Stoneham High School memory occurred during cross country season sophomore year. It was one of the last meets of the season, and we were running against Reading at the home course. It had poured the night before and the entire course was flooded. On top of that, there had been another race earlier on that week, so there were a few unexpected obstacles to overcome. About a mile into the race, I came across a haystack that had been used in another race. Trying to be super-athletic, I hurdled over it, only to fall on my face splitting my knee open. Although it was not that funny, now when people ask me where I got the huge scar on my knee, I always have to answer, "I tripped over a haystack."

-Sarah McManus

I will never forget our chemistry class junior year. For Melanie, Amy, Andrea, and me, it became a ritual to sit outside the door in the chemistry hall every other morning before class. Sure, we had to face obstacles such as giant killer bees and oncoming teacher traffic, but we never let that stop us. Unquestionably, we all learned something from that class. Andrea now knows that it is not a good idea to take off your safety goggles when a Bunsen burner explodes and goes up in flames. Before our experience in this class, Amy never knew that water fights were a criminal offense and could get us in trouble with the FBI. Melanie learned that cough drops do not fit down the hole in the lab table and surgical procedures may be required to extract them. And as for me, I realized that open - book group tests are so much more enjoyable. We will definitely remember these unique experiences for the rest of our lives.

- Melissa Lupis

After school one day, Tim, Peter, Evan, and I decided to take a swim. So, we all went down to Spot Pond for a dip when suddenly, state troopers came and took us to the station. This resulted in a 6 hour stay in a jail cell with a man named Ramon. This is a memory I will never forget.

-Paul Goncalves

My most vivid Stoneham High School memory is the time I never arrived at Cafe Pompeii after the junior prom. Everyone thought that my date and I had gotten lost, but in reality, we were stuck in the middle of I-93 beside our flaming van. Within the next hour, the fire engines arrived and managed to put out the flames. We did get to ride 90 mph in the back of a police car. After this incident, I made it a point to take a limo to the next prom, rather than an old van.

-Erin Chan

In mid-December, my friend Leo was anxiously awaiting her acceptance letter from Wheaton College. We decided to leave school early to check her mailbox for the letter. Unfortunately, the mail had not come yet, so we decided to drive up and down the streets of her neighborhood looking for her mailman. After about a half - hour of searching, we finally spotted him. He told us that he didn't have the mail yet but when the white postal truck came, he'd have the mail for her street. We couldn't wait so we told him to hop in and we'd all go find the postal truck together. So basically, we left school early and kidnapped the mailman, all for a letter that didn't even arrive until days later!

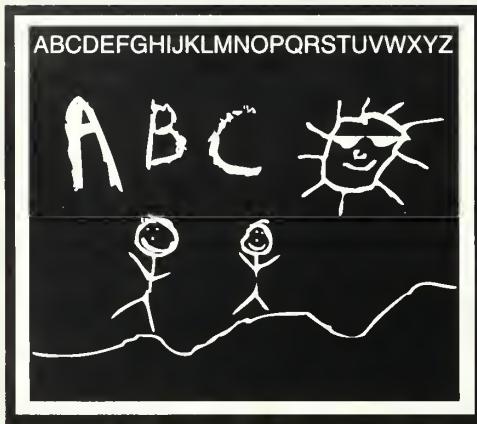

- Jaclyn Tammaro

My most vivid memory would definitely be during my junior year. I was videotaping Carnival Ball that year. I had the camera pointed towards the stage and after looking into the viewfinder, guess who I saw? I saw Mr. Carino in a kilt, dancing around the stage. He moved with such agility, everyone was blown away. He was even wearing soccer cleats! We had no idea that Carino was the original "Lord of the Dance"!

-Richard Woods

My most vivid Stoneham High School memory is when Mr. Thomas Rosenfeld began his rookie teaching career at Stoneham High School. I was a freshman at the time and it was my first year in Italian class. All of the upper-classmen in Italian II and III stressed him out so bad that he threatened us at least once a week by saying he wanted to go back to Italy. One day the Italian II class stole butter from Gracie and smeared it all over the chalkboard. Mr. Rosenfeld couldn't write on it for the rest of the year and Ms. Rudner still has difficulty writing on the left side of the board to this day.

- Roberto Furioso

My most vivid Stoneham High School memory occurred April 3, 1998 - Junior Prom Night. Shannon, Mary, Julie, Kelly, and I had decided to go stag. We all had fun at the prom but we had even more fun at the Cheesecake Factory afterwards. We ate fattening desserts and laughed at stupid jokes. When we were about to leave, Mary, Julie, and Shannon took a last minute trip to the bathroom. As Kelly and I waited by the door, two men came walking over to us. They circled around us once, looking us over. We glanced at them questioningly. One of them said to us in a Midwestern accent, "I'm sorry. . . we just had to come over here and tell you how beautiful you look. We don't have girls like you in Iowa!"

- Christine O'Brien

My most vivid Stoneham High School memory is when I was coming back from Italy and we had to go to London to catch our plane to America. When we got on the plane, we all sat down and put our seat belts on. As I was looking around to see what where the bathroom was, I saw Ram Krishnan. I yelled out his name and he saw me. We couldn't believe that we were in London together. We ended up sitting together and watching Titanic the rest of the plane ride home.

-Melessa Musto

My most vivid High School memory is the sprint I was forced to run every other day from keyboarding to the gymnasium freshman year. This would take place with two upperclassmen hot on my heels. I used to have Jen Scullin carry my books while I waited at the door for the bell. As soon as it rang, I would be off like a shot, knowing that if I was caught I would receive the charley horse of my life. More often than not, I made it, but the times I didn't, it seemed as though we were scheduled to run the mile in gym class. I would end up limping the four laps around the track in agony. -Peter Conroy

---

My most vivid Stoneham High school memory occurred on Halloween Dress Up Day for freshmen year. Because of the English class requirement, I dressed up as Pocahontas. I was wearing a headband around my head with a long feather sticking out of it, along with war paint on my face. I was innocently walking quickly down the Junior hallway when somebody tripped me. I was hurled into the air as my heavy backpack gave me great momentum. I crashed on the floor and slid down the hallway, past Mr. Rocher's French class. The ENTIRE hall erupted in laughter as I heard someone mumble, "Look! It's flying Pocahontas!"

- Mary Giordano

My most vivid memory will always be when the 1997 winter cheerleaders were going out to decorate the hockey players houses. The entire team stopped at "Billy's Roast Beef" to get something to eat. As we were leaving, one of my friends jumped on my back. I was completely not expecting it so I fell on my hip. There was a police officer on duty who called an ambulance. The E.M.T.'s carried me out on a stretcher and took me to the emergency room. The entire cheerleading squad waited in the emergency room with me. A few parents showed up, except for MINE! Around 11:30, my father showed up and took me home the long way. When I arrived home my house was toilet papered by the girls. Even though I was in pain, they sure made me feel better. We still joke about it.

- Christine King

Sports

As freshmen we joined many different sports teams not knowing what to expect. We were in awe of both the camaraderie and competition that comes along with a high school sport. As each year passed we began to understand and embrace our role on these teams. We, as individuals, are like pieces of a puzzle. Each member of the team is different and has a different role, yet we all fit together perfectly like a puzzle - functioning as one unit, winning and losing together. Now as seniors we work together to show our Spartan pride. These teams have left us with memories we will never forget.

“ Although the 1998 Varsity Field Hockey team didn't end up with the best record nor make the post season tournament, our dedication and love for the sport carried us through the season. We accomplished our goal of beating our prior season record and built a bond of friendship that will last forever. We were proud to have Kristen Cullen selected by the Middlesex League as All - Star. The 1998 S.H.S. Golf Team had a season of ups and downs. With a 5-8 record, the team did not finish as well as they had hoped. Led by senior tri-captains Nick Palermo, Adam Mahoney, and Ricky Morrell, the team had proven talent returning from last year. Also, senior newcomers Mike Downing and Chris DeCaro saw action in many matches. Juniors Paul Sodergren, James Previte, Eric Jamieson, Chris Plant, Matt Rogers, Mike McGagh, and Fred Drago made great contributions to the team. The promising young talent of sophomores Ray Powers, Mike Armstrong, Andrew Shirkoff, and freshman Chris Serrano were also a big part of our successful season.

Although we had some setbacks, we overcame them, worked hard and, in the end, we were all very proud of ourselves.

We made many friendships and will carry all our memories with us forever. Good luck to graduating seniors Kristina D'Alelio, and co-captains Heather Grace and Melissa Loperfido. Thank you to Ms. DiLisio and to all the other cheerleaders for a great season. Good luck next year!

With a 5-7-6 record, the Spartans played well in the ever tough Middlesex League. Highlights of the season were a 0-0 tie on the road against league champion Winchester and a last second win versus rival Reading. Seniors playing significant roles for the Spartans were O'Keefe, Taranti, Craig Donahue, Mike DiLisio, and Peter Conroy.

Taranti, Donahue, and junior Domenic Martignetti were Middlesex League All-Star Honorable Mentions for the 6th place Spartans, while juniors John Tucci and Chris Serino were voted first team Middlesex League All-Stars.

"The real measure of an athlete is not what she is, but what she dreams to be." This quote is a perfect description of what the girls' varsity team accomplished this year. Tired of mediocrity, we set our sights on the state tournament and swore we'd do whatever it took to get there. We fulfilled this promise through captain's practices, camp, summer league games, double sessions, and Marielle's somber rap for Ginger. The opportunities allowed us to come together as one common unit made up not of superstar individuals, but of determined, hard-working athletes, willing to fight for a single goal.

This season had many victories, but none as sweet as beating Wakefield for the second time to qualify for the tournament. Not only did we walk away from the season with the bragging rights of making the tournament, but we walked away with many memories including pasta parties, Melrose cops, toilet papering the coaches' houses, and the ever memorable singing and dancing on the bus ride home after Concord.

As seniors, these memories we will take with us forever, but we won't cherish them as much as we will the friendships we formed throughout high school.

On Thanksgiving Day, November 26, 1998, Stoneham High celebrated Homecoming, a highly anticipated event which occurs only once every four years. Creative floats prepared by individual classes formed a procession through the streets of Stoneham led by Grand Marshall Henry "Bob" Margarita. Each float carried their Homecoming Queen nominee, her escort and enthusiastic members of the class. The Band entertained the onlookers while the Cheerleaders showed their school spirit. Local dignitaries as well as the Stoneham Police and Fire Departments participated. The annual contest between Stoneham and Reading football teams followed. The Homecoming Queen was announced during half-time with Junior Danielle Izzicupo taking home the honors. The light drizzle did not dampen anyone's Spartan spirit.

The 1998 - 1999 Stoneham High Hockey team can best be described as a successful failure. With a strong returning senior class and many talented underclassmen it looked as though this would be the year. However, injuries and sickness plagued the Spartans, holding them one-point shy of the State Tourney. Although tournament hopes were shattered, the ice men did better than expected, finishing 8-9-3. Senior forwards co-captain Rick Morrell, Joe Taranti, Ryan Carr, Bobby Hanley, Steve Marek and senior defensemen co-captain Tim Horgan, Sean Cullen, and Dave Armsden all demonstrated leadership qualities throughout the year and formed a strong nucleus of talent. Although the seniors do deserve a hand for their hard work this season, it is only appropriate that thanks should be given to a certain individual. That is Dana Marek. Mr. Marek coached the Spartans through the off-season months. The father of senior forward Steve Marek, Dana gave up his own time to see to it that the Spartans were ready for battle. Also it is appropriate that thanks be given to the student body for showing great school spirit.

Despite all the injuries, however, we still had a pretty respectable season of 3-4. Everyone came through for each other. We trained long and hard to learn the elements we needed for the different events, and if we didn't learn them, we chucked them anyway. I am going to miss the gymnastics team. We had some precious times together. Leap high and stay in sync. ”

Our record of 3 - 17 does not reflect the true success of our season which was demonstrated by our hard-working, never-say-die attitude. Our teamwork on the court was a direct result of our strong friendships off the court. We had many fun times including dinners at Peschiones and toilet papering houses. Although we are saddened at leaving the team, we are positive that next year's team will reap the benefits of this year's hard work and dedication. Good luck and we'll miss you.

“ This year we had a strong team. Some of the girls were on the fall team as well as winter and although we were afraid there were going to be conflicts, we had no problems adjusting. Although the basketball team didn't have the best season, we kept our spirits up and tried to keep the spirit going. Hockey games were fun and enthusiastic. We had fun times hanging out with the hockey team. We were close throughout the entire season. Many friendships were rekindled and will continue throughout years to come. We will always remember each other and the many memories we shared. ”

One of the most difficult rites of passage for teenagers is finding one's niche among the student spectrum. To feel this sense of belonging, we need true friends who give a listening ear, a mouthful of advice and a shoulder to cry on. # SENIOR LIFE

The time has come to say good-bye,
We're moving on, no time to cry,
We've made so many friends in these high school halls,
Made so many memories within these concrete walls.
We've been here four years, but the time has flown,
Now we enter the "real world" completely alone.
We all have to head our own separate ways,
We've reached the end of our childhood days.
We're ready to move on, start a career,
We'll overcome the obstacles, conquer every fear.
But forever in the lining of our hearts,
Memories of carefree days with which we'll never part.
Everyone said "high school is the best time of your life,"
But we hushed them and rushed it, only to learn they were right.
Semis, proms and Carnival Ball.
We had so much fun, we'll remember them all.
We entered timid freshmen, nervous and a bit scared.
Now we leave the high school seniors, independent and prepared.

Superlatives

Upon looking at our class, anyone would notice that we have a diverse and special group of people helping to make our "puzzle" fit together. Although we are all unique, our classmates on the next few pages have qualities that make them stand out among the rest. Whether it be because of a physical attribute or state of mind, these people will be remembered not for their fitting in amongst their peers, but for their ability to stand apart.

nderclassmen

At Stoneham High School all the classes are special in their own way. During the sporting events, assemblies, and other activities, the underclassmen tend to lighten up the atmosphere when things start getting too intense. Though we can't always depend on them to provide a great act at Carnival Ball, they are nice to have around. Sometimes we do get annoyed with their immature behavior, but they help us to remember that we were once like that, and maybe still are. Without underclassmen at Stoneham High, the puzzle wouldn't be complete.
